

I am making a comment regarding the weakiening of the Indiana law which disallows businesses, solicitors, charity groups, and any group that is not in a personal relationship with me to phone mt home. As many other's who support this legislation I receive multiple phone calls at various times of the day and night for their prupose. My telephone is a service that I pay for and feel it should be my decision if these individuals and groups should have the opportunity to interupt my life. If they approached me on the street I would have the chance to walk away, and more importantly I can see them and know who they are. When my phone rings I do not have that option. I also don't pay extra for caller ID as I beleive this is in repssponse to the very person's I am remarking about and why should I have to add services to my phone in order to keep them from contacting me. The answer is simple DON'T ALLOW THEM TO CALL ME.
